SLE-1 (Use only material up to and including Section TSS)
Suppose a system of linear equations is known to have at least one solution and that the coefficient matrix has a column of zeros. Prove that the system has infinitely many solutions.

[Note: That the row-reduced form of the augmented matrix will have a column of zeros may seem obvious but you are required to prove that fact if you wish to use it.]